

THE SENSE-IT! KIT

These supplementary instructional resources, compiled as an experiential toolkit, offer a unique complement to the Online Educational Resource — Sense-It!: Insights into Multisensory Design.

These activities aim to enhance the creative learning process by providing hands-on team activities for practising the OER concepts. While these additional resources are provided for educators, we hope that they will enable design students, designers, and non-designers to gain an appreciation for the complexity of human experience that influences design decisions.

Please look through the Facilitators' Guidebook first to understand how to use the sets of supplementary resources.
